Speaker Introduction

As a professional speaker since 2012, Tyler has had the privilege of presenting at more than 1,500 live events, ranging from Fortune 500 companies to small local businesses. With extensive industry experience, he is driven by a genuine desire to help his audiences, and thus delivers engaging content focused on practical application and actionable takeaways. Known for presenting without notes or PowerPoint, he has built a reputation for his relatable, conversational style and for consistently delivering exceptional value that participants can put into practice immediately. In addition to owning his own business, Tyler has also served as a Talent Management Consultant for Johns Hopkins University since 2015. He is very excited to share his message with you today.
